The Time of Opening the Schools. SUGGESTIONS WORTHY OF ATTENTION.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: May I use your valuable agency for the purpurpose of calling attention to what appears to many persons as a very grave mistake. I refer to the opening of the public schools in the early part of September, the most trying month in many respects of the whole year—the heat is the most oppressive, often most excessive. In addition to the ordinary expenses, they estimate for certain much-needed improvements and additions, and with the knowledge that the present department is numerically too small to cope with an extensive fire, or two large ones occurring at the same time, we would fail in our duty to the community if we did not second their reasonable request. This is through no fault of ours, but is the result of unforeseen causes. It happens that the estimates for feed for the current year were based upon the prices paid the preceding year; but an unexpected rise in the prices of forage leaves but money enough to the credit of that particular fund to purchase supplies for six or seven months. For this reason it is necessary that the sum asked should be appropriated to supply the deficiency, and be made available at once."

A "CRANK" ONLY WHEN DRUNK .- This morning in the Police Court a large, elderly colored man named Tobias Simpson was charged with cursing and swearing on the street. Officer Kearney, who is stationed at the B.&P. depot, stated that he was talking to a gentleman in to pass on, when Simpson exclaimed at the top of his voice that he was the President of the United States. Witness remarked to his friend that this must be another crank. Simpson became so loud and insulting that witness had to put him under arrest, when he grabbed witness by the throat, tore his uniform, and struggled so that it took several persons to take him in. The court asked Simpson if he had any statement to make, and he said that all he had to say was that he was drunk. The court also asked him if he still claimed to be President. Simpson grinned and said that he did not.

TWENTY YEARS' SERVICE .- September 11, 1861, (twenty years ago yesterday,) the metropolitan police went on duty for the first time, and had The President at Long Branch.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY BULLETINS. Becker, was ordered by the court to file a ture was 98.7, pulse 100, and respiration 18. The morning bulletin yesterday said: "At the examination of the ment of balance in hands of administrator to President at half-past eight this a.m. his temperature was 98.8, puise 104, respiration 19. He was more restless and the febrile rise was later than on the preceding night. He continues to take sufficient nourishment without gastric disturbance.'

THE SATURDAY NIGHT DISPATCH. Secretary Blaine sent the following dispatch to Minister Lowell, at ten o'clock p.m., Satur-

After dispatch of last night the President had come a significant feature in his case. Through the day, and especially this afternoon, he has grown more comfortable. A cold easterly storm has prevailed since early morning, without evil effect thus far on his condition. Secretary Windom had a brief interview with the President at noon. He found him much reduced in strength, but clear in his mind. He asked the Secretary about the success of the refunding of the public debt.

ANOTHER BAD SUNDAY. Another crisis arose in the President's case yesterday. A new but not entirely unexpected complication is reported, involving one of the patient's lungs. Throughout yesterday his pulse and temperature were higher than usual, and Secretary Blaine, in his nightly dispatch, took a rather gloomy view of the case, in which he said there were no reassuring symptoms.

LAST NIGHT'S BULLETIN. The following was last evening's official bulle-

THE DISPATCH TO MINISTER LOWELL. Secretary Blaine sent the following to Minister Lowell at half-past 10 last night:

"The President had an increase of fever last night, and was very restless until 5 o'clock a.m., but his pulse, temperature and respiration have been higher for the entire twenty-four hours than on any preceding day since he reached Long Branch. His other symptoms are not reassuring, and his general condition gives rise to

BLAINE, Secretary."

DR. BOYNTON APPREHENSIVE. Dr. Boynton said yesterday that the President had not had so favorable a day. During Thursday and Friday there was quite a decided mprovement in his condition, but on Friday late in the evening the temperature and pulse commenced to increase. He was not materially worse than Saturday, perhaps, but he had made no gain. "I consider the lung trouble the most serious feature in the case. think the President has sufficient vitality to carry him through the present trouble and on to recovery unless new developments of the same nature occur. The trouble is located in the lower and posterior portion of the right lung, and is, in my judgment, the result of the bad condition of the blood. There are no indications of its resulting fatally, but there is great danger of encountering more trouble of the same kind."

ANXIETY AT ELBERON LAST NIGHT. Dr. Agnew, when approached on the President's condition last night, referred to the high pulse and temperature as due to the usual fluctuations of the patient. As the night wore on the anxiety increased, and the scene at the Elberon, usualy bordering upon loneliness and gloom, caused by the intense quietness which prevails in the neighborhood, became quite aninated by the congregation of a number of representatives of the press, anxious to learn the latest from the President.

THE PRESIDENT'S MENTAL BEWILDERMENT. Col. Rockwell was asked if it was a fact that the President was delirious as had been reported. He said that the President had been troubled more or less for some time past with a sort of temporary bewilderment. "Nothing more serious, however," said he, "than many well persons experience upon awakening from a sound sleep." The colonel said in this connection that it was a serious error to refer to this matter as delirium, inasmuch as it was invariably temporary and the patient was always conscious of it, and he (Col. Rockwell) instanced his actions at such time by saying that he would not address any of his attendants who might be standing near him until the seeming cloud had passed away.

DR. HAMILTON'S VIEWS ABOUT THE BULLET. When asked by a reporter in New York last Saturday if he had recently discovered the situation of the ball, Dr. Hamilton replied: "Not exactly. We think we have discovered the situation of the ball, but this discovery (if it is such) was made as far back as July 24. We have never lost sight of the ball from that day to this; it lies under the psoas muscle in the right iliac fossa, where it can be distinctly felt as a hard substance. Pressure over this point most probable that the ball is encysted, but sailor was brought from shore dead drunk, and whether encysted or not it causes no trouble." When asked what would be the most natural course of the ball, the doctor said: "The most natural course, probably, is down along the course of the psoas muscle into the thigh. We

Hayes Agnew published a card yesterday, in which he corrected the statement that in front of the depot yesterday, when this man came up and said something; witness told him Woodard and Bliss accompany the patient to Woodard and Bliss accompany the patient to Long Branch, and then cease their connection with the case. Dr. Agnew says: "In answer to these statements I beg leave to say that I am entirely ignorant of any such transaction, and certainly never was asked to act as a referee in the settlement of any question of the kind. No one knowing the high personal and professional character of the three gentlemen in question, would for one moment do them the great injustice to believe that they would desire to continue their connection with a case after receiving the information purported to have been

Nolle Prossed.—Twenty-two cases against Wm. Troxall, a young man of this city, indicted for forgery in connection with drawback certificates, were nolle prossed in the Criminal Court this morning. A HORSE KILLED BY THE HEAT.—The Washington and Georgetown railroad company lost a horse Saturday from the effects of the heat. The animal fell on Bridge street, near High. about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and lived until late that night. COMPLAINTS are made by the residents and merchants on Bridge street that the street sweeping machines are driven too near the curbing, and that consequently the sidewalks receive a good part of the sweepings, and the SECURITY AND SAFETY. dust is thrown into the stores and houses.

Alexandria Affairs.

Reported for THE EVENING STAR. THE COMING TELEPHONE EXCHANGE.-The telephone matter will be settled to-night, and by to-morrow at noon the Southern Bell Telephone Co. will be authorized to place upon the streets here such poles as they may find useful in conducting their business. A majority has been obtained in each board of the city council in favor of a bill for this purpose, but the twothird rule, which operates upon the first evening a bill is introduced, has heretofore prevented consummation of the matter. The aldermen will hold their second meeting to-night, and the bill will pass. Within three weeks the company will have its posts up, and there will probably be some thirty telephones in use here within that time. The Alexandria exchange will be connected with the Washington Telephone exchange, but it is understood that a fee of fifteen cents will be charged subscribers for each communication between the two cities. Gas Gains .- The report of the city gas department, just printed, shows that one foot out of three feet of gas made at the works during the past fiscal year was used by the city or by the Reform Club, Light Infantry and other organizations that receive gas free. The total amount paid by consumers was $19,469.37, while the public gas, for which the works received no pay was valued at $6,180. One hundred and fifty street lamps are maintained by the gas-works at a cost of $4,000 per annum, or $26.66 each. There is no gas inspector, and it is said that the flame is often below 16-candle power. The works, including free gas at regular rates, paid the city during the fiscal year $11,615, of which $5,300 was in cash. There are a few public coal-oil lamps used during the season at Fishtown, but there is no electric light in use here. Street lamps were erected here as early as 1803.

A HANGING, NOT AN EXECUTION.—No little excitement was created on the river front here Friday by what some thought to be a public execution for mutiny on the British barque Lottie Stewart, now lying in the stream. The previous afternoon when several deserting sailors had been taken from jail and sent on board, one of them had attempted to kill the captain. So when, yesterday afternoon, the persons at the wharves saw a seaman dangling at the yard arm the rumor spread that Kelly had killed the is not painful; when the President is asked if it captain and was being hung for mutiny. The hurts him, he replies: 'Yes, a very little.' It is fact, however, turned out to be that another had to be hoisted on board by tackle from the vard arm. REPORTER'S NOTES.—The public schools opened this morning with some 1,200 pupils on the rolls. -James Harrison, an old market dealer, was cannot say positively what course it would take, only that it is least likely of all to penetrate the infirmary to-day.—The bark Lottie Stewart sailed yesterday with 3,600 bushthis muscle and thus directly encroach upon the els of grain for Europe.—Two men dressed as Indians have been making a trading venture as "medicine men" on the streets to-day, attracting much attention. — The funeral of Mrs. Mary C. Garner, of 922 D street, near Ryland chapel, took place here Saturday evening, the remains having been brought here for burial.—The mayor closed up a house of ill-fame on Fairfax street, near Oronoko, yesterday, sending all the inmates to the workhouse except one woman, Ella Dean, who was received back by her husband.—Both the Alexandria Light Infantry and the St. John's Academy Cadets are making preparations for the Yorktown encampment.— The station-house this morning had two cases of "disorderlies" and one colored man for creating a nuisance.

JOHNSON'S TRIANGULAR COPPER LIGHTNING ROD! Combining the conducting power of Copper with the strength of the Iron Red inside. Recommended by the principal scientific men of the United States. Manufactured and put up in the best manner by JOHN SINCLAIR.

JOHNSON'S TRIANGULAR COPPER Superiority is claimed for this conductor for the following reasons:—1st. It is made of the very best material ever used for this purpose, viz: Pure Lake Superior Copper. It is not liable to rust, and possesses greater conducting power than any other Copper Rod before the public, and more than seven times that of any Galvanized or Iron Rod in use. 2d. It is the strongest Lightning Rod, and therefore the least liable to get out of repair. 3d. Its connections are most perfectly made, without the use of screws, nuts, wires or rivets, thus leaving the surface uniform and unbroken. 4th. The points used are the very best, being silver (fire) plated and platinum tipped, and are made in the same form as the Rod, with no irregularities in it or at its connection with the Rod, and erected at about the same price of galvanized rods. Repairing done promptly. All materials used of superior quality, and all work warranted to give entire satisfaction. LIGHTNING ROD.
